

Enthusiasm Marks Anniversary Services of St. Paul's United Church

St. Paul's Church Congregation Celebrates Another Milestone in Church History.

The 27th anniversary of the founding of St. Paul's church, was commemorated on Sunday by the church being filled to capacity at the morning and evening services. Rev. A. K. McMinn, B.A., of Wesley church, Lethbridge, delivered two addresses of inspirational and thought-provoking nature, endeavoring to show how religion and the work of the church may be usefully applied to the practical every-day things of life and dealing with one's fellow men.

Rev. Roy C. Taylor, minister of St. Paul's, introduced the visiting minister, referring to earlier friendships with each other.

The junior choir led the singing at the morning service, singing the anthem "Whither a Pilgrim?" with a solo by Roy Taylor, Jr., entitled "Children's Hosanna."

In the evening a mixed adult choir of 25 voices sang the anthem "My Times are in Thy Hand," Madame Thomas, of Hillcrest, sang a solo, "Hear Ye, Israel," from Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah." Mr. J. Emmerson played the organ accompaniments.

On Monday evening the annual supper and concert was held, at which the Rev. A. K. McMinn gave an interesting and amusing address on "Some Aspects of the Ministry," relating experiences, humorous and otherwise, which was indeed a rare treat to the large audience.

At the anniversary dinner on Monday evening, short talks were given by J. Fairhurst, who voiced the appreciation of the church management to Rev. Mr. McMinn for his services; Rev. John Wood of Bellevue, Rev. A. E. Lark of Blairmore, and Rev. Roy C. Taylor and Mr. J. Shevels of Bellevue. A very fine menu was served by the ladies, which earned tributes of appreciation from all who attended.

The program in the church, following the dinner, was attended by a capacity house, the main feature being an address of both serious and humorous nature by Rev. A. K. McMinn. The musical numbers were by Ellen Richards, Irene James, soprano solos; Mrs. Robert Holmes, church, piano and reading; J. Kerr of Blairmore, and D. Jones of Coleman, violin solos.

United Church Notes

The usual services will be held next Sunday, April 2, with the minister in charge of the services of worship morning and evening. The anniversary services were all that could be desired. Let us carry over the inspiration derived into the work of the church in the coming months. The fine congregations both morning and evening were a source of encouragement to minister and session. Let us look forward to the Easter services with great anticipation.

Morning worship at 11, music by junior choir; sermon, "Multiplying Your Worth," emphasizing the law of "use or lose." Evening worship at 7; music by senior choir. Sermon, "I am the Persecuted" (last in series on the Beatitudes). Song service at close of the evening worship. Come and sing your favorite hymn.

"Canada is not the greatest mineral producer in the world, not even in the Empire. Neither is South Africa. That small island known as Great Britain, has, under normal conditions, a production of coal alone which equals in value the entire mineral production of South Africa, Canada, Australia, India and all the other parts of the Empire put together."—G. M. Campbell in Maclean's Magazine.

Watch for the prizes to be given at St. Alban's whist drive on Easter Monday. They will shortly be placed on view in a down town store window.

CANADIAN LEGION WILL CELEBRATE VIMY RIDGE ANNIVERSARY

The local branch of the Legion met on March 27 in the council chamber Harry Garner, president in the chair, and R. F. Barnes, secretary.

A resolution was passed supporting the action of the provincial committee in protesting against the proposed action of the Federal Government compelling civil servants in receipt of pensions from war services either to give up the pension or their jobs.

A committee will inquire into the status of the 192nd Battalion canteen fund, of which it is reported there is a considerable balance on hand in a Blairmore bank, in care of trustees appointed during the time the battalion was recruited in the Pass.

Secretary Barnes' report showed several members paid up and in good standing with the provincial command. Those who have not paid the per capita tax of 40c per quarter should pay it at once to the secretary, Comrade P. Smith brought up the matter of raising funds for the erection of a war memorial on which to place the memorial tablet. A suggestion has been made that the council beautify the garden spot at the town hall, place a fence around it and make it more attractive, and that the Legion erect a cairn. This proposal will be taken up further between the Legion, the Citizens League and the town council.

It was decided by unanimous vote that the anniversary of the Battle of Vimy Ridge, in which the Canadian Corps played so glorious a part, be commemorated by a smoker, and a committee was appointed to complete arrangements. It will likely be held in the Oddfellows hall on Saturday, April 8, as the actual date of the anniversary is April 9, which falls this year on a Sunday.

Each member will be allowed to invite a friend, and the admission for members and friends is $1.00 each provide for the expenses. A good program is looked for.

Members are also urged to subscribe for the Legionary, the official monthly magazine issued by the Canadian Legion, the special rate for which is 75c per year.

ST. ALBAN'S CHURCH, COLEMAN

Next Sunday is the fifth in Lent. The services will be 12:30 p.m., Sunday school; 7:00 p.m. evensong and address. Every Friday evensong and address at 8 p.m.

Use printed matter to give dignity to your business. You create a favorable impression thereby. Notices written on pieces of paper and tacked on telephone poles may be seen; more often they are passed by. A few dollars spent in adequate advertising will well repay the expenditure.

Last Friday night the Grand Union hotel reported the loss of an electric iron, electrical fixtures, automobile rug, two pairs of gloves, light gloves, overalls and other articles. It is alleged that during the dance that evening the thieves must have obtained access to the basement and stole the articles mentioned.

Taxation in Canada

Combined taxes levied by Dominion, Provincial and Municipal Governments in Canada were $56,000,000 in 1925-6, $63,091,861 in 1926-7, $68,036,485 in 1927-8, $71,810,192 in 1928-9, and $77,989,645 in 1929-30, according to a study prepared by W. Sanford Evans, and released for the National Committee on Economy in Public Finance, by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Per capita, the levies are as shown in the diagram; $10.84 in 1925-6, $11.58 in 1926-7, $12.10 in 1927-8, $12.60 in 1928-9, and $13.20 in 1929-30.

Most tax bills are paid by heads of families. Adopting the census returns of 1921 of 4.82 persons as the average per family then taxes per family of $14.44 in 1925-6 had grown almost 2½ times to $36.10 per family in 1929-30, or almost $80 per month.

As with government expenditures and debts, these increases have far outrun the basic industrial and financial development.

CARNIVAL COMMITTEE MEETING

A meeting of the general committee for the carnival on May 23-24-25 will be held on Sunday, April 2, in the council chamber, at 12:30 p.m. All members kindly take notice and attend.—D. Gillespie, president; J. Wilson, secretary.

VIOLIN CONCERT AND LECTURE

W. J. Harris for many years has instructed pupils in violin playing, keeping alive the art of musical culture through difficult times. On April 8 at 8 p.m. and on April 10, at Coleman, he will give a violin concert of the highest standard for the benefit of his pupils, in order to inculcate in them appreciation of some of the best composers. His program will consist of a talk on "The Origin of Music," with selections of the composers Borowski, Drigo-Auer and Dordla. Handel's Sonata IV, will be used to illustrate the psychology of the Sonata form, and the personality of Kreisler will be demonstrated by "The Old Refrain," "Sichon Rosmarin" and "Lichiaf." The program contains a very true quotation by Ruskin: "All one's life is music, if one touches the notes rightly and in time." Mrs. M. Clifford will be the accompanist.

RECIPROCITY IN BUSINESS

Business men ordering goods from travellers for wholesale houses are pointing out to them that reciprocity is a good thing for business—for the houses they represent. They point out that the Coleman hotels offer as good accommodation and even better than many towns of similar size, and that in fairness to those who place orders with them, they should reciprocate by patronizing local hotels when requiring accommodations. The matter has been referred to the Associated Commercial Travellers, Calgary branch, by the local Board of Trade.

MORE FIRES IN EAST COLEMAN

Four dwellings were burned down on the night of March 24 in East Coleman, between 8:30 and 10 p.m. It is alleged to have been accidentally started in Martin Huszka's house, and as there are no fighting appliances in that district, the wind caused the flames to quickly spread. The Polish hall was in danger, besides various small houses. Houses owned by Martin Huszka, Mike Huszka and Mrs. P. Pacykowski were destroyed. Some insurance was carried. Corp. Causey and Constables Houghton and Henderson helped in preventing the spread of the fire by tearing down wooden fences, which were used to provide splendid material for conducting the fire to other buildings.

Whist Drive Easter Monday

There are just 600 tickets issued for the electric bridge table to be drawn for at the whist drive on Easter Monday at St. Alban's hall. No more will be issued, therefore those who have not yet purchased should do so at once. Other prizes to be played for at the whist drive will include a handsome Hudson's Bay blanket, valued at $3.00; a casserole, valued at $6.00; hand-woven cushion valued at $5.00; and other prizes. The proceeds are to be used in completing improvements to the parish hall.

Young People Display Talent in Fine Musical Program in Parish Hall

RECITAL BY HIGH SCHOOL ORCHESTRA IS APPRECIATED

Ambitious Program of Selections from Works of Famous Composers Delights Audience.

Under Miss May Powell, high school teacher, a very fine recital was given in St. Alban's hall on Saturday afternoon, March 25. The program in addition to carrying the names of those taking part and the selections played, contained brief biographical sketches of the composers of the various selections, which added to the interest of the program, in that it helped the audience to gain a deeper appreciation of the works of Handel, Mendelssohn, Schubert and others of the great musical composers.

The selections were as follows: A Curious Story, The Merry Farmer, A Hunting Song (all by Schumann) played by the orchestra; Rondino in E flat (Beethoven-Kreisler) played by violin solo by Elizabeth Moores; Cigue (Handel) by the orchestra; songs by Winona Taylor, The Trail to Slumberland (Licuriance) and Florian's Song (Godard). Excerpt from the overture to "Poet and Peasant" (von Suppe) and Theme from "Invitation to the Waltz" (Weber) played by the orchestra; Adoration (Borowski) by Olga Belevich; and three selections—Loveand, Pansies and When Love is Blind, the latter an old Irish tune, by chorus of girls. Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" and Rabas' "Over the Waves" waltz were also selections by the orchestra. Elken Richards sang two of Sullivan's songs, one from "Iolanthe"—Love is a Plaintive Song; the second from "Patience"—None Shall Part Us. Johnny Pietraszko's violin solos were from Schubert's Overture to "Rondeau." The recital was a most successful one, and by tea being served to the parents and invited guests, in which Miss Powell was assisted by Miss Bessie L. Dunlop.

A Great Opportunity.

In articles written for this column a studios effort is made to avoid subjects of a partisan political character, because we are not concerned with the fate of political parties, as such, but only with the effect which the adoption or rejection of any given policy may have upon the welfare of the country and people as a whole. For this reason, and in order to avoid even an appearance of partisanship, discussion of certain subjects which undoubtedly are in the public interest, but which, unfortunately, have become involved in party controversy, has not been undertaken. The aim of this column has been, and will continue to be, to present information, logically and fairly interpreted, and leave it to the reader to reach his or her own conclusions.

One subject which has, therefore, been more or less taboo in this column is Customs Tariffs, their effect on prices, on the trade and commerce of the country, on both internal and external development, and international relations in general. That taboo on the wide subject of Tariffs still remains because political parties remain sharply divided on the question, but there is one particular aspect of the Tariff and Trade question which, within recent weeks, has been lifted out of the realm of partisan controversy so far as Canada is concerned. Reference is to the subject of reciprocity with the United States.

All political parties in Canada are now definitely committed to the policy of entering into favorable trade relations with our great neighbor to the south, and, most happily, the present Administration in the United States is also favorable. It is, therefore, unless purely selfish interests are in both countries are allowed to unduly influence the probable course of events, a new chapter in the trade relations of these two good neighbors will shortly be written.

After all, it will not in reality be the writing of a new chapter, but the re-opening after a long interval of the book at an old chapter, and a revision of that chapter in the light of present day developments and needs. Reciprocity did prevail many years ago between the United States and Canada, and it was admittedly advantageous to both countries. Why, then, was it abrogated? The Encyclopedia Britannica gives the reason in these words:

"A heritage of differences and difficulties had been left to be settled between England, Canada and the American Union as the result of the Civil War. In retaliation for the supposed sympathy of Canadians with the South in the struggle, the victorious North took steps to abrogate in 1866 the reciprocity treaty of 1854, which had conferred such great advantages on both countries."

Whatever the differences and difficulties and ill-feelings and suspicions which were engendered by the American Civil War, they have long since passed away. They no longer stand as a stumbling block to the development of the freest and largest possible exchange of trade between these two countries, each of which is the natural market of the other.

Now with the situation in Canada being that any Government in power at Ottawa, whether Conservative, Liberal, C.C.F., or a coalition of any two or all three parties, would be committed by their party declarations to the negotiation of a reciprocal trade agreement, and with the Roosevelt Administration, supported by an overwhelming majority in both Houses of Congress, equally favorable, the time would appear to be most opportune for the cultivation of the strongest possible public sentiment in favor of the early ratification of such a policy on a comprehensive scale, and covering the widest possible range of commodities.

According to Henry Chalmers, of Washington, chief of the Foreign Tariff Division of the United States Department of Commerce, "the Government is working 'full tilt' on a reciprocal tariff programme." Even before the Hoover Administration retired from office the Government tariff experts had been put to work on a reciprocal tariff programme, said Mr. Chalmers, in order to help "the Roosevelt Administration get a flying start."

Mr. Roosevelt's Secretary of Commerce, Daniel C. Roper, openly advocates a United States tariff policy of common sense and common decency to other nations. He says: "For too many years we have, as a nation, been fervent in our protestations of a desire to foster our international trade, while at the same time we have actually been doing our best to place in its path almost insurmountable obstacles. There are honest differences of opinion as to tariff policies, but I believe that an overwhelming majority of the American people have unmistakably shown that they are tired of a policy that has antagonized every country in the world." Buying as well as selling must occur in foreign commerce, he said, adding that no nation could successfully market its own goods if it persisted in refusing to admit a reasonable volume of the products of other countries.

Let it be repeated, therefore, that now—with partisan differences in Canada having been thrown into the discard on this question—Is the time for the people of this country to unite in the development of a great sentiment in favor of a long-sought reciprocal trade agreement with the United States, and the presentation of a united front in order that our great natural market to the south may be re-opened in which to sell our primary products, and freedom in buying across the line be accorded to our people in the case of those many things which the United States can supply naturally, quickly from the standpoint of service, and more economically than any other country.

Sweden's "Garden Cities"

Stockholm Is Fringed With Communities Since War

Factory-made cottages that can be put up in a day have become popular in Sweden, and Stockholm is fringed with little "garden cities." The workman who tires of apartment life can order a new home on Monday and help his wife put up the curtains and lay the rugs a few days later.

The "garden cities" are part of a communal building program designed to provide low rents for wage earners, in which the city government has in the last ten years extended indirect financial aid to nearly 100,000 persons, almost one-fifth of the population of the city.

The program was instituted after the World War when there was a shortage of homes as a result of industrial development. The government bought up large country estates, and these are parceled out on long-term leases.

The person who decides to build a cottage can have 90 per cent. of the cost financed by the government. The interest charges on this money pay for road development, gas, water and sewer mains. For a modern cottage with three rooms, kitchen and full bathroom, the dweller pays about 950 kroner or $200 a year.

Property Of The King

Many Important Thoroughfares In London Belong To Crown

Choice properties of London and splendid agricultural estates are listed among the holdings of the Crown Lands Commission, who administer the estates once owned by the Kings of England personally. In London the crown owns virtually all the modern shopping centre of the West End, Regent Street, and the broad boulevard called the Mall which leads to Buckingham Palace. Much adjacent property, too, belongs to the crown, besides many other important thoroughfares, including the Strand and Oxford Street. The agricultural estates in England amount to more than 100,000 acres. Revenue amounts to nearly $9,200,000 annually, from which the King's Privy Purse, amounting to about $2,350,000 is taken.

'Buy British' Campaign Should Be Modified

Originator Of Movement Thinks It Has Gone Far Enough

"Buy British," the campaign that was expected to bring about a revival of British manufacturing by turning purchases away from foreign goods to home products, is now doubted by one of its most powerful advocates.

Sir Edward Crowe, Controller of the Department of Overseas Trade, said in an address: "I think probably the 'Buy British' campaign has gone far enough. We want to buy American goods and we want America to buy British goods." His remarks were made to a gathering of American and British business men.

Sir Edward confessed he had been an originator of the movement he now would modify. It was set on foot by the Empire Marketing Board, of which he is a member.

Like Buckingham Palace

King and Queen Fond Of Quiet Spacious Gardens

While some of the younger members of the royal family dislike Buckingham Palace, the King and Queen are very fond of it. They love the quiet, spacious gardens where they can meander and read and work. Queen Alexandra was most reluctant to leave the Palace and return to Marlborough House after the death of King Edward. Prince George left the house, not because he disliked it, but because he wanted to join the Prince of Wales, his favorite brother.

Belief May Be True

People Walking In Sleep Should Not Be Awakened

The danger of awakening a sleep-walker is brought anew into discussion in a story written by Marjorie Ellwood, told to her by a pioneer uncle. It all happened more than 80 years ago, near St. Thomas. Western Ontario is dotted with old burying grounds. In some cases the bodies have been removed to public cemeteries, but at nearly every old homestead a plot of ground covered by bushes or trees is left severely alone. In these plots are the sunken graves of the pioneers, guarded by moldering slabs of marble, neglected, forgotten and sometimes dishonored.

Seven sons and one daughter lived in a certain farmhouse, the daughter looked after her mother and when the latter died, and was buried on the farm, the daughter was heart-broken. Soon it was whispered about that there was a ghost haunting the settlement. Different ones who had been out late nights reported they had seen a figure draped in white, gliding along the highway.

Followed one night, a doctor in the company, it was discovered that the grieving daughter was a sleep-walker, sobbing at her mother's grave. The brothers were warned to guard her, but not to awaken her. In the end one brother grew tired of what seemed to him foolishness, on a rainy night. He believed she was not asleep at all, but only acting, so when he followed her in the rain, he called out very crossly to her and woke the poor girl up. She was terrified and fled. Her brother, now frightened, followed her as fast as he could, but lost her in the woods. The settlers organized a posse and searched for her. She was found unconscious later in the day, where she had fallen from exhaustion, miles from home. She was taken home in a raging fever, and died soon after.

Fewer Using Family Crest

Heavy Taxation In England Appears To Be Chief Cause

The family crest, used on carriages, table silver, cigarette cases and rings, is vanishing from London. In 1923 nearly 7,500 licenses were issued there. In 1930, the last year for which figures are available, that total had shrunk by about a third, or some 2,600 and the L.C.C. authorities expect a further decline in the current year. Heavy taxation of the people entitled to armorial bearings appears to be the chief cause. Many of these old families have become extinct, and not a few of the last representatives have emigrated. Perhaps changed habits, and a different attitude towards life, have influenced people who can still afford the guinea license, and a generation hence armorial bearings may be used chiefly by colleges, public schools, and civic and other corporations—Edinburgh Scotsman.

More Fruits Canned

But Fewer Vegetables

Ontario Leads All Other Provinces In Both Lines

The pack of fruits in Canada increased substantially in 1932, but there was a marked decline in the pack of vegetables. Imports of both canned fruits and canned vegetables dropped in that year, but exports of both advanced. Ontario led both provinces in the supply of both canned fruit and canned vegetables. Quebec is the only other province for which separate information is published, and this indicates that canning activity in Quebec is devoted much more largely to vegetables than to fruits.

The output of canned fruits of all kinds in the Dominion in 1932 was 1,272,334 cases, compared with 784,333 cases in 1931. Of canned vegetables and soups the output last year was 5,411,562 cases, against 7,248,381 cases in 1931. It is estimated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, from a study of the returns received, that the figures given include over 95 per cent. of the total production of canned fruits and vegetables in Canada. A new feature of the report just published is that for the first time it contains information as to the weight of the pack as well as of the number of cases packed.

Pears led other varieties in the pack of fruits, both in the number of cases and in the weight of the pack. The number of cases, of pears reported was 374,075 with a weight of 12,138,279 pounds. Peaches came second in number of cases, but apples in weight.

Tomatoes held first place in the pack of vegetables, with soups second and peas third. This order is based on cases, weights placing beans third, though they ranked much lower in the number of cases.

Though imports of canned fruits and vegetables showed a marked decline, increase in the exports of these commodities was large. Imports of canned vegetables in 1932 totaled 3,981,024 pounds, compared with 3,424,603 pounds in 1931. Canned fruits imported last year were 11,523,885 pounds, against 11,526,221 pounds in the previous year.

Japan's New Tanks

Are Product Of Arsenal At Tokio And Osaka

The Japanese Tank Corps and Machine Gun Corps which are taking a prominent part in the advance into Jehol are of recent formation.

The constitution of the Tank Corps—medium and wheeled tanks are employed—is the result of special experiments made on the terrain of both Japan and Southern Manchuria. The tanks are the product of the Tokio and Osaka arsenals.

The Field Artillery is of the Krupp pattern, and the equivalent of the British old 13 pound type, but great use is being made also of mountain gun batteries, which are all fully mechanized.

The Japanese infantry is armed with the Murata rifle (which is considered to be one of the strongest and most serviceable weapons in military use) and with a new type of Hotchkiss quick-fire.

Single Men For Air Force

For Several Reasons

The Federal Government of Australia wants its air force personnel composed of young, unmarried men and the reasons are psychological and commercial.

It is pointed out that the experience has been that single men are likely to accept the hazards of aviation with less misgiving than men who are under the responsibility of supporting wives and family. For that reason particularly, it is believed that single men display more nerve and are likely to make a better record where desperate risks must be accepted.

The other consideration is that dependents of married men have claims for compensation in the case of death or injury of the married aviator and Australia's finances are not such as to justify extra outlay.

Canada's Mineral Production

"Canada's mining industry today, depressed as it is by world conditions, still remains one of the brightest spots in our industrial life," stated Dr. Charles Cammell, Deputy Minister of Mines, in his address before the Canadian Ceramic Society in convention at Ottawa recently. He stated that the value of Canadian mineral production in 1932 was over $180,000,000, it provided employment for over 65,000 workmen, with a total pay roll of over $90,000,000.

Wheat Export Prospects

Canada Expected To Greatly Improve Her Position During Coming Year

Canada will in all probability greatly improve her wheat export position in 1933-34, as compared with the previous year, the monthly review of the wheat situation, issued by the department of trade and commerce, says. Scarcity of wheat in Russia and partial failure of the Danube crop are given as grounds for this prediction.

In the present crop year to date, Russian and Danubian shipments have amounted to only 19,000,000 bushels, with the prospect that no more than an additional 5,000,000 bushels will be shipped to the end of July, 1933. This would require of the non-European wheat-producing countries an export of about 640,000,000 bushels for the whole crop year, or about the same as in the preceding year.

The report estimates the new Australian crop at 200,000,000 bushels, with a surplus of 150,000,000 bushels for current export. Of this, 101,000,000 bushels has already been exported.

Argentina's estimate is 236,000,000 bushels, leaving 126,000,000 bushels for current export. Of that a total of 57,000,000 bushels has still to be exported.

War Buildings Being Made Into Aerodrome

Were Erected At Southampton For Assembling U.S. Planes

The great collection of corrugated iron and brick known as Atlantic Park, which the traveller in England beholds just before the train reaches Southampton, is to be sold to the corporation as a municipal aerodrome.

The buildings were put up during the war to serve as an assembly place for United States aeroplanes which were landed in parts at Southampton. Some time after peace was declared the Canadian Pacific, and other companies interested in the North Atlantic trade, made a joint purchase of the property and used it for a considerable time for the transitory accommodation of migrants to Canada and the United States. Since migration ceased the buildings have been more or less derelict.

All-Water Freight Service

Regular monthly all-water freight service between Toronto, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Montreal and Vancouver and British Columbia points via the Panama Canal will be started next month by a new Canadian steamship company formed for the purpose.

Sir Alan Cobham's plan for shortening North Atlantic passages by means of combined air and steamship services, has been laid before the United Kingdom and Canadian governments, and presented to the Irish Free State high commissioner's London office.

Historians have found that a toy model of Stevenson's first engine, the Rocket, was made in England in 1829 and presented to Goethe, the famous German poet.

Persecution Of Jews In Germany Has Been Ended, Says Report

Washington.—The state department reported official investigation of conditions in Germany indicated whereas there was for a short time considerable physical mistreatment of Jews, this phase may be considered virtually terminated.

This finding based on reports from the Berlin embassy and United States consulates throughout Germany, was telegraphed by the state department to leading American Jews, who had requested the government to verify the reported mistreatment of members of their race at the hands of Hitlerites and to take appropriate action. While state department officials did not amplify the telegram, it was understood authoritatively that no official American protest to the Hitler government is planned in view of the embassy's report.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull said the embassy felt "a stabilization appears to have been reached in the field of personal mistreatment, and there are indications that in other phases the situation is improving."

American Jewry had been aroused to a high pitch of indignation by the reports of harsh measures against members of their race by followers of Adolf Hitler, chancellor and now dictator. Protest meetings have been called in various parts of the country. The state department has been flooded with telegrams asking appropriate diplomatic action.

Large Conversion Loan

Opportunity May Be Presented To Canadian Bondholders In The Fall

Ottawa, Ont.—A large conversion loan is expected to be laid before Canadian bondholders early in the fall but it is unlikely any issue will be offered before that time, it is learned here. In his budget speech, Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, forecast a conversion loan "at the opportune time."

The heaviest obligations of the government mature as a rule late in the fall and this year it is understood the funding requirements will be in excess of $300,000,000.

No Plans For Conference

Washington.—Plans have not yet been advanced for United States participation in a conference of wheat exporting countries, including Canada, seeking grain price stabilization, but this part of President Roosevelt's program of economic rehabilitation by international action is believed to be awaiting congressional consideration of the administration's farm relief formula.

Goes Over Niagara Falls

Niagara Falls, N.Y.—John Furlong, who had spent all of his 82 years within the sound of the mighty Niagara cataract, leaped from Goat Island bridge and was carried over the falls. The aged man had for the last half century been a slave of the Winds employee, explaining the wonders of the falls to tourists.

Winston Churchill Makes Bitter Attack On British Foreign Policy

London, Eng.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, facing the House of Commons for the first time since his Rome peace conversations with Premier Benito Mussolini, of Italy, ran into bitter opposition from Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, former Conservative Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Mr. MacDonald sought to assure the House of what he regarded as the soundness of the Mussolini "peace club" plan and of his belief that, with slight redrafting, the British and the Mussolini plans might be made to coincide. His speech brought cheers from the government benches, but roused Mr. Churchill to a bitter attack on the whole British foreign policy.

For four years, the former chancellor said, the Prime Minister had directed the nation's foreign policy, and yet the United Kingdom was nearer war than before.

He described the conversations Mr. MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Sir

John Simon had with the Italian premier as a visit to "Don Quixote and Sancho Panza."

He contemptuously scored methods of the world disarmament conference "measuring swords at Geneva" and as "a futile advertisement of all the apparatus of war." France, he maintained, could not support the British disarmament plan which the Prime Minister and Sir John delivered in an effort, generally considered at least partially successful, to rouse the conference to renewed activity.

Mr. Churchill attacked that portion of the MacDonald plan which called for reorientation of army effectiveness among European states, including reduction of French forces and increase of those in Germany.

Germany, he declared, was going through "a tumultuous insurrection of ferocity and war spirit." He accused her of extending "pitiless treatment to minorities" and of "denying normal treatment to civilized society merely on account of race."

Wheat Conference

Plans Have Not Yet Been Advanced For U.S. Participation

Washington.—Plans have not yet been advanced for United States participation in a conference of wheat exporting countries, including Canada, seeking grain price stabilization, but this part of President Roosevelt's program of economic rehabilitation by international action is believed to be awaiting congressional consideration of the administration's farm relief formula.

A significant note in the new American government's plan to restore trade normalcy through reciprocal agreements with customer nations was Secretary of State Hull's announcement that just as soon as congress has completed work on emergency domestic relief legislation, the president will request blanket authority to negotiate understandings involving exchanges of tariff privileges, lowering of embargo restrictions and removal of other barriers to reciprocal commerce.

Meanwhile, the wheat conference was awaited as a remedy to the existing acute world condition in which exporting countries hold vast surpluses while countries normally considered as wheat importers do not buy.

Canadian Rifle Team

Congratulated By Governor-General On Their Performance

Ottawa, Ont.—The performance of the Canadian rifle team at Bileys last year placed Canada in "a very proud position," His Excellency the Earl of Beesborough, Governor-General, said in congratulating the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association on a successful year. His Excellency attended the annual meeting of the organization held here.

Indications the riflemen was coming back to his old position of importance in the army were seen by Major-General A. G. McNaughton, chief of the general staff, who also addressed the meeting.

Major C. H. Crowe, of Guelph, was elected president, succeeding Col. D. R. Street, of Ottawa.

Chartered Bank Comes Through Without Assistance

Ottawa, Ont.—One of the chartered banks of Canada came through a "run" in which $10,000,000 in deposits were withdrawn, without the aid of assistance from other banks or from the Dominion government, Premier H. B. Bennett told the House of Commons.

The Premier mentioned this as an instance of the soundness of Canadian banks when his government was charged with unfairness in not coming to the aid of the Manitoba savings office last year.

Frowns On Lotteries

Premier Bennett Says Winnings Should Be Forfeited To Crown

Ottawa, Ont.—Expressing the opinion that the winnings of all lotteries should be forfeited to the crown, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, in the House, voiced his "strongest opposition" to anything that would stimulate speculation among the Canadian people. Mr. Bennett was winding up a brief discussion on the bill amending the criminal code respecting lotteries, sponsored by P. F. Casgrain (Lib., Chateaufort-Saguenay). The bill was talked out.

Expect Price Increase

Jam and Marmalade To Cost More, Is Prediction

Hamilton, Ont.—An increase in the cost of jams and marmalades is foreseen by Col. Arnaud Smith, of E. D. Smith and Co., Winona, as a result of the sugar and sales tax on jams. Fifty per cent of the content of jam is sugar, he said.

Wine will be increased five cents per bottle, said William Aikens, prominent grape grower and wine man of Vineland, unless—and he thought this unlikely—the liquor control board absorbs the additional costs caused by the sugar excise tax and that on proof spirits.

Cut Through Snow Drifts

The Cross-Cut Saw To Open Up Highway

Fernie, B.C.—The provincial road of works has completed a cut through the gigantic snowdrift on the highway between Fernie and Elk, which came down about the middle of January and blocked the road. The cut through the side is of exceptional proportions, perhaps the greatest ever made in Canada. It is more than 1,000 feet in length with a maximum depth of 32 feet. It was necessary to cut out blocks of the packed snow and ice with cross-cut saws.

Starting Bank Probe

Ottawa, Ont.—The government will set to work at once to set up the royal commission to investigate the Canadian banking system and consider the pros and cons of arguments in favor of a central banking system. The commission was confirmed in the budget speech of Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, in the House of Commons.

Minister Of Finance Says No Intention To Interfere With Pensions

Continue Relief Plan

Minister Of Labor Replies To Question Of Opposition Leader

Ottawa, Ont.—The Dominion Government will continue to do in the future what it has done in the past year with regard to unemployment relief, Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, told the House of Commons. The minister was replying to a question in which Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, leader of the opposition, asked whether "apart from the doubt, the minister had any comprehensive, co-ordinated plan to announce to the House dealing with unemployment relief."

The government's policy was that monies would be devoted first to assisting the provinces where they were unable to take care of their own people, said the minister. The government would help the provinces to project any schemes which they may conceive or which the Dominion may conceive within the financial limitations of the governments to provide employment or take care of direct relief.

Mr. Gordon believed the situation was not getting worse. He knew there were people who would be gratified to see things on the downgrade and thus fulfill their own prophecies. However, the Dominion government would not invade the jurisdiction of the provinces.

Treatment Of German Jews

Canadian Delegation Asks Premier Bennett To Investigate Trouble

Ottawa, Ont.—Jewish members of the House of Commons, consisting of S. W. Jacobs, A. A. Heaps and Samuel Factor, waited on the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister and Minister for External Affairs, asking, on behalf of Canadian Jews, that steps be taken to ascertain the nature of the mistreatment alleged to have been suffered by German Jews since the Hitlerite government came into power.

The Prime Minister received the delegation sympathetically and undertook to communicate with Dr. Oscar Skelton, under-secretary of state for external affairs, who is in London, asking for a complete report on the situation.

The delegation took the view that Canada, being a member of the League of Nations, of which Germany is also a member, and that racial and religious rights are safeguarded by the league, appropriate action could be taken by that body to preserve Jewish rights, which, it is claimed, are being attacked by the Hitlerite forces.

Under C.N. Management

Government Action On Pensions Would Not Affect C.N. Employees

Ottawa, Ont.—Any action taken by the government as indicated by the budget speech, to suspend payment of pensions to war veterans employed in the civil service will not apply to veterans employed by the Canadian National Railways, it was learned here. Salaries of C.N.R. employees are regulated by the C.N.R. management and are not directly under the control of the government as is the civil service, it was explained. Action affecting employees of the C.N.R. would have to be taken by the management of the road.

Ottawa, Ont.—Following close on the heels of a three-hour conference between the Prime Minister, the Minister of Finance, and the leaders of the associated veterans, the statement delivered in the House of Commons by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, wherein the minister affirmed that "it was never intended to interfere with pensions as such," was hailed by the service men as an acceptable climax to a swiftly-moving drama.

"The last thing in the world that we had in our minds was any interference with the sanctity of the contract concerning pensions," said Mr. Rhodes, the minister, touching on the interpretation of his reference to the suspension of pensions to civil service war pensions in the budget speech sought to set at rest the "misapprehension with respect to what is in the minds of the government" in that connection. His brief statement was received by the associated veterans' leaders "with much relief."

Inundated with telegrams from all parts of the country voicing the protest of various veterans' bodies against what they considered a violation of the pledge of parliament with regard to pensions, the associated veterans felt that the minister's explanation would allay the fears of service men that any drastic action operating to their disadvantage was contemplated.

In an official statement emerging from the conference of the associated veterans, the soldiers' leaders placed themselves on record as approving the minister's observations.

"The associated veterans are much relieved at the outcome of the conference," the Prime Minister and the Minister of Finance, the statement said. "They also greatly appreciate the statement made in the House of Commons by Mr. Rhodes to the effect that the government never intended to violate its contractual obligations to the pensioners of the Great War. This statement completely reassures the veterans of this country that no threat is levelled against the rights of their comrades who are now suffering disability due to the war."

"The associated veterans express their thanks to the Prime Minister and the Minister of Finance for their courtesy in meeting with them and exploring the whole economic situation of the country so exhaustively."

Auto Parts On Free List

Number Of Additions To Free List Are Noted

Ottawa, Ont.—A number of automobile parts have been added to the free list in the budget. They include gasoline pumps and parts thereof; fuel pumps and parts thereof; composite gaskets of metal and asbestos, steering gear locks, transmission locks or combinations of such locks. Ball bearings may now be imported and warehoused free of duty. Formerly they had to be imported direct by the user to come in free.

Prohibits Foreclosures

Bismarck, N.D.—Mortgage foreclosures or execution sales of real property occupied by the owners and of livestock and other personal property used by farmers in operation of North Dakota farms were prohibited by a proclamation issued by Gov. William Langer.

Farm Stabilization Fund Cost Placed At More Than Six Million

Ottawa, Ont.—Cost of the agricultural stabilization fund to the federal treasury will be more than $6,000,000, but less than $10,000,000, dependent on the volume of business in the commodities affected on currency exchange, said Premier R. B. Bennett.

The Prime Minister made this estimate in the House of Commons, when questioned about the fund by Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, leader of the opposition. Mr. King asked why provision for the fund should be made in the relief bill then before the House since it was not a relief measure, but a bonus or subsidy.

"It is not a bonus or a bounty in the ordinary sense of those words," said Mr. Bennett. "It is properly a relief measure and is consequent on the low price of farm products and the depreciation of the currency of the country to which they are chiefly exported."

The relief bill provided for farm as well as unemployment relief, Mr. Bennett went on. The low prices of farm commodities made relief necessary. The stabilization scheme would provide relief for the farmers by improving prices for the commodities it applied to, and providing security against exchange fluctuations.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

A church anniversary was held this week. To many it may have been an event of no more than ordinary interest. To others it meant another milestone of work accomplished and well done in the Master's service, which in truth means in the service of the community, for His greatest work was for and among the common people.

Of-times the remark is heard—"I do not attend any church." It also of-times means that no support is given to any church. It is an obligation shelved, for there is not a man, woman or child breathing who does not owe something to a church.

Man's conscience, however much he may outwardly deny that the church means anything to him or his family, will remind him that he is just camouflaging to escape what should be his duty. Church support is not compulsory, such as lodge dues and taxes, yet the small amount the church asks is trifling compared with what will be spent to retain earthly possessions and enjoy the pleasures of life.

Women are the most faithful workers and supporters of the church. Women ministered to the Saviour when he hung on the Cross, and it is women who have been the most faithful right down to the present day and in our smallest communities. Look around you and you'll see how true it is. The man who ignores the church ignores one of the great principles of life. He cannot live unto himself alone. He may try to, but eventually he pays the price—that of a guilty conscience and the sting of remorse.

"What do we need for Happiness?" is the title of a magazine article by Sir Phillip Gibbs. It contains a fable by Dr. Thomas Darlington, to the following effect:

"A certain Oriental king who was very unhappy called a philosopher to him for advice. The philosopher told him to find the most contented man in the realm and to wear this man's shirt. After long search the king found this man—but he had no shirt!"

Sir Phillip, in his article, states: "And when one comes to think of it one can simplify one's needs and still get a lot out of life." It seems that this advice is quite often handed out by those who have risen from obscurity to affluence, but would they go back to those days of the simple life had they their choice? We incline to the opinion they would consider it a hardship.

Happiness is largely a state of mind, we'll admit, but to be constantly gnawing on a bone does not conduce to a happy frame of mind. Continually scratching together a few pennies to keep out of debt may be an absorbing occupation, and it may conduce to happiness—of a kind—but not the happiness we all view as the ideal.

Despite our views of Sir Phillip's article, and he is a real good fellow, the best way to attain happiness is by facing realities bravely, and "if you cannot reach the peak of the mountain, you may at least enjoy the view from a lower level." Ask those who have attempted to climb Crows Nest mountain. Some have succeeded, others have not, but they all had fun, together with some hard knocks and innumerable scratches.

W.A.R.C. in his "Broadcast" in the Lethbridge Herald gives a very interesting review of Isaac W. C. Solloway's book "Speculators and Politicians." He gives two columns of very interesting comment and excerpts from the book, and tersely sums it up in the concluding paragraph: "It is interesting in what has been a famous prosecution and trial. It is the Solloway view of what happened to Solloway, Mills and Company."

There was at least one "Hereford front and claw hammer" present to uphold the reputation of the old days. This describes the only dress suit worn at the old-time dance at Lundbreck, reported in the Pincher Creek Echo.

Which calls to mind the early settlement of Cannington Manor, in Saskatchewan. As the name implies, it was a very English settlement. So English, that the wealthy people who settled there built a race track, imported fox hounds, and entertained on the scale they had been accustomed to back home. The promoter of this early settlement had counted on a railway line running clear through it, and enticed many a would-be gentleman farmer to settle there. The railway came—ten or eleven miles south of the settlement, and a rival town of just plain Manor started up, with post-office, elevators and stores, leaving our happy settlement of Cannington Manor between two lines of railway, the main line about 40 miles north and the branch, line eleven miles south. But it died hard. The little Anglican church, with its burying ground, the flour mill, the post-office, continued to function for some years, but eventually had to succumb. The men with the money departed elsewhere, some to settle on the coast or in Victoria, others whence they came, and the glories of old Cannington are now but a memory. It has settled down to just an ordinary mixed farming district. The reminder of the "Hereford front and claw hammer" brought visions of the dress suit brigade in the old settlement of Cannington Manor, also the jockey who was placed in a steam cabinet to reduce his weight and the man in charge forgot all about him till he was almost cooked or sweated to death. "Them was the days!"—when the late Judge Wetmore, later chief justice of Saskatchewan, would take all day to try a horse thief, because he wanted to be sure of the evidence by taking down his own notes and would not be bothered with a stenographer, and Sir Frederick Haultain, present chief justice, (then just plain Fred) would enjoy a week-end with the boys in a "quiet" town during his political campaign for provincial rights.

Burns, of Saint Paul, Minn., attended the annual meeting of the head office of the company here on Tuesday, March 28. Mrs. Nowell accompanied her husband and spent a few days here the guest of Mrs. Kellock. The visitors were accompanied a short distance east on the train on Tuesday by Vice-president G. Kellock, following the meeting.

ADVERTISING HAS POWER TO BUILD BUSINESS

Your attention is attracted to a store's advertisement. You immediately become interested in what it has to sell. Consequently, if you are wanting some of the items advertised you are quite likely to go to the store which by its advertising has impressed itself on your mind. Advertising serves a useful purpose. It enables a merchant to tell many people in a short time what it would be impossible to tell them individually.

Advertising can be made a real telling power for maintaining and increasing business. The local newspaper is the most effective medium to compete with the catalogue and the door-to-door seller. Backed up by real service, the local merchant should be able to outsell outside competitors, because he can make contacts which build good-will. Though "business is business," good-will plays a very important part in attracting people to certain stores.

One Of the Contributory Causes Of the Present Crisis is That People Do Not Love the Land

Few thinkers lay the cause of the present crisis on any one thing; and although there is some disagreement in emphasis, most people include the following as the major reasons of the world's travail—in the realm of politics, the war debts, excessive governmental expenditure, international commercial paralysis due to high tariff barriers; in the realm of economics, over capitalization, over concentration of spending power, over production; and in the realm of sociology, machines, individual extravagance.

There is not now, and perhaps there never will be, complete harmony over the order of importance of these causes. We even wonder how pertinent is their application to this continent. With the exception of the War debts and the tariff situation, the causes of the present depression (we use the word guardedly) as listed above are to a large degree localized. That is to say, they originate in North America and their influence is felt within its confines. This realization is challenging, for it forces a deeper probing of the causes of the existing economic and social turmoil.

Perhaps an astute investigator would not for long miss the profoundly disturbing psychological basis of the present conditions. North Americans are rootless peoples. As a racial group, they are not endeared to the land. It is true that no single industry is as numerically great as that which derives its living from the soil, and that therefore the charge of rootlessness seems to be entirely unwarranted, but the tragic emphasis is that these people do not love the land. Rather, they wrest their livelihood from it; they take and take and take from the land, and they hate that which they loot.

The broad implication is that this is a continent that has never been loved—perhaps it is too shortly settled—since its soil is not loved. And dotting its wide reaches is a multitude of clucking hens, the Main Streets, with their restless resentful broods. Distorted instincts have made these towns unlovely and unlovable. The roots of most of their peoples have not penetrated the cement streets to the good earth below; humanity and the soil have not met.

This condition has held for several decades now. Youth, brought up on the farm, years for the city, and is swallowed up in its clanking machinery. And so the land loses its continuity. There has been a mere idle rocking of forces in the shift from country to town. And now the continent seems to be paying a twice-extracted retribution for its superficiality.

Man should not merely conquer the land, he should also win it. And that is where North America has so far failed. The looted land, by creating a distorted, resentful, warring psychology in the hearts of its looters, is wreaking a subtle vengeance that may yet be more terrible than anyone can conceive.—Winnipeg Free Press.

An Envious Position

Britain Has Confidence Of People Impervious To Panic

Walter Lippman, writing in New York Herald-Tribune says: "Why is it that Britain is comparatively better placed at the moment than so many other nations? Is it because her fundamental difficulties are smaller? Not at all. The fundamental difficulties of Britain are real ones. But what Britain has had is the confidence of a disciplined people, of a people politically competent that they are impervious to panic. In the past few months the American people have gradually had it brought home to them that the ordinary happy-go-lucky methods of each for himself, each Senator, each faction, each state, each section, each privileged group for itself, may be all very well in easy times, but in the midst of a crisis they are as impossible as in time of war."

Professor Einstein announces that up to now he has been unsuccessful in reconciling the Quantum theory with the Relativity theory. All of us will therefore have to be content with perfectly understanding each theory separately, as we now do.

The British food control is watching closely the effect on retail prices of present and future restrictions of meat imports.

Certified Seed Potatoes

Official Tags Constitute Guarantee To the Public

Canadian certified seed potatoes are known in many countries of the world, but, nevertheless, many people have a hazy idea of what is implied by the word "Certified." There need be no doubt as to the word's true significance for the Dominion Department of Agriculture has defined certification as a means of recording seed stock that is of good type, from vigorous plants, and, as far as practical under advanced conditions of farming, relatively free from serious diseases. When potatoes have been inspected in the field and after harvest by an authorized officer of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, and have been found vigorous and to conform to the standards set of freedom from serious diseases and of purity of variety, they may be certified. Official tags are issued for such seed stocks exclusively and these tags constitute the guarantee that Canadian certified seed potatoes are being dealt with.

A SMART MODEL WITH CERTAIN VERSATILITY REGARDING MATERIALS

It's unbelievably easy to fashion. The scarf neckline is easy to handle, yet new and attractive in effect. The bodice is cut with raglan shoulders. All you've to do is to join the sleeves to the bodice, following the perforations for same. The skirt has length-giving panels at the front.

As for materials for this charming model, it only remains for what occasion it is desired.

For street, it is lovely in navy blue crinkly crepe silk with white crepe silk scarf collar.

Very effective and cool for spring and later wear is to make it with short sleeves of a crepe silk print with plain taupe crepe trim.

It's sporty with short sleeves of grey rabbit's hair woolen with yellow crepe silk scarf collar.

Style No. 576 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust.

Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 30-inch, with 5/8 yard 39-inch contrasting.

Price of pattern 20 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

British Admiral Dead

Sir Martyn Jerram Led Second Battle Squadron At Jutland

The leader of the second battle squadron at Jutland and one of the most prominent naval figures of the present era is dead in the person of Admiral Sir Martyn Jerram, 74-years old.

His decorations for service and valor were from several countries including one he gained early in his career which he always prized—was the Royal Humane Society's medal for life-saving.

Sir Martyn headed the committee investigating the lower-deck grievances at the close of the war and his pay revision suggestions were adopted.

The Banks Of Scotland

No Failures For Fifty-Five Years Constitute Record

A letter in the Detroit News says the word British includes Scotland geographically, but in many functions they are different and independent of each other, such as Scotch law and Scotch banking.

While England boasts some 12 years and Canada, about 10 years without a bank failure, it does not seem to be generally known that "the true homeland of bank failure," Scotland, has not had a bank failure since the City of Glasgow Bank failed in 1878, 55 years ago.

This should interest the American public who are crying for safer banks to keep their money in.

Keeping the Wolf Away

A modest, but well-known poet found himself sitting next to a famous yet plain-speaking judge at a recent function in London.

In response to a few "feelers" regarding his business, the literary man confessed he had "been known to have a few poems published."

"And can a living be made writing poetry nowadays?" asked the judge. "At least manage to keep the wolf from the door," was the reply.

"Ah, I see! Read your poems to it, I suppose."

Boxed Apples Popular

Current statistics of imports of apples into the United Kingdom from the United States and Canada show a decrease, compared with the previous season, in the total receipts of barrel-packed apples, but a large increase in receipts of box-packed fruit.

"ROYAL SCOT" READY FOR LONG TRIP

Canada and the United States are going to see the "Royal Scot" this year when the famous train will tour the chief cities of the Dominion and the United States, following the Chicago World's Fair. The train will be complete even to coaches and baggage cars and it will be the first trans-Atlantic visit of a complete British train. Here we see the "Royal Scot" leaving London to be overhauled for the trip.

Planning To Establish A Well-Founded Town Worthy Of Western Canada's Sea Port

There will be no "bubble" boom for the Port of Churchill; nothing that will gladden temporarily with optimistic opportunities only to crack from the lack of constructive settlement.

Prepared to throw open the town-site to public occupation this spring, Manitoba Government officials, administrators of the infant port, just entering its second actual year, are planning to prevent any undesired rush to Churchill. They want to establish a well-founded town worthy of Western Canada's outlet to the sea.

Meanwhile, directors of the town and port are optimistic. People in many parts of the world are interested in the future of the rugged little settlement across the river from the scattered pile of rock that once was historic Churchill. Hundreds of replies have been received to circulars sent out by the Department announcing when the townsite would be open for settlement.

Numerous applications for permission to establish various business enterprises have been received by R. W. Gyles, director of lands, who has charge of development work. Many have requested further information regarding business and shipping possibilities before deciding to make application.

If all applications were granted by the Department and construction were to begin at the spring opening, summer would find a remarkable sight at the rock-bound mouth of Churchill River.

There would be a business district capable of catering to the citizenry of a small city. In applications submitted permission is sought to build 22 hotels, 23 cafes, 85 stores, 24 warehouses, 36 offices, 30 public buildings (churches, Government offices, banks and theatres) and 20 shops (laundry, barber, printing, etc.); also 176 general enquiries regarding possibility of residential development.

Some applications, Mr. Gyles said, came from England, many from the United States.

If the port proves its worth, there will be no difficulty in leasing space in the town, which has been surveyed and drawn into districts to provide for an ultimate population of from 5,000 to 6,000 people. Present development, however, provides for population of only from 600 to 1,000.

This population would be fit enough, Mr. Gyles believes, to great their plan for "slow and sure" development. It is going to be a "long, slow" task, he concedes, but he is confident of its future. People and firms who come to the port or establish business agencies are aware of the length of time it will require to give the new site a fair test.

The Government wants the town development founded on a basis as sturdy as the rocky townsite itself. Though restrictions on passenger and freight traffic have been lifted, officials will still watch closely the increasing population. No "overnight" businesses are wanted, and directors have notified all interested parties that leases on all properties here will be for 50 years, with possible revision in rental every five years.

The picturesque site, dominated by the towering white grain elevator, mainstay of the port, is divided into well planned avenues and squares. There are 21 streets, each named after some historical character such as Hudson, Selkirk, Radisson, Grosvenor, La Verandrye and Franklin, with from 20 to 50 lots on each. Rental of these will range from $25 to $100 annually.

Already there exists a possibility of sufficient industries to build up the town population. Warehouses, shipping branches and even an oil refinery and a rendering plant are rumored, but to avoid arousing any false hopes officials are reticent to discuss what may not materialize.

With opening of navigation in Hudson Bay the port will burst into activity. The big elevator is jammed to capacity with 2,500,000 bushels of Western Canadian wheat, which inspectors have just reported in excellent condition. The far northern winter, they said, had no ill effect on the grain, stored there last fall before winter called a temporary halt to transportation over the Hudson's Bay Railway.

Movement of grain should start again immediately the elevator is cleared and officials expect this summer will find a shipping flotilla regularly carrying grain from Churchill to United Kingdom and other European countries. And in the interim a campaign is being waged among Western Canadian concerns in support of the movement to make importations through Churchill so vessels will not be obliged to travel to the northern port in ballast.

Grow Wheat In Africa

France Is Experimenting With Soil In French North Africa Colonies

Experiments in wheat growing in North Africa, with the aim of producing "hard" wheat and so enable France to cut down her imports from the American continent, will be financed under the 300,000,000 francs credit recently authorized by the Chamber of Deputies to aid agriculture, the United Press learned from a reliable source.

Even when France produces domestically enough wheat for her needs, she requires to import hard wheats from the United States and Tunisia, the Argentine to mix with the softer French varieties in milling. This was strikingly demonstrated during 1932. Although the native crop totaled 315,000,000 bushels last season—10,000,000 bushels over her needs—the imports from the United States and Tunisia, approximately 50,000,000 bushels.

Agricultural experts have reported favorably on the soil of the French North African colonies as being eminently suitable for experiments in raising better quality cereals. Every year, larger areas are being cultivated in wheat, Morocco and Tunisia, which shipped during 1932 a record crop of 25,000,000 bushels across the Mediterranean to the metropolis.

Reviving World Trade

Radical Change In Regard To Tariffs Only Possible Way

If there is to be an international economic system at all, and if world trade is to revive, there must be a much freer exchange of goods generally than exists at present. Unless the Economic Conference is able to achieve this, neither the gold standard nor any other international standard, which endeavors to fix the exchange rates between different countries can be permanently maintained. In other words, before we attempt to co-operate once more in setting up an international monetary system, we must make it a condition not merely that the tariff be reduced to a harmless proportion, but that there is a radical change in the present situation as regards tariffs and trade restrictions.—Sir Walter Layton in London News-Chronicle.

Use Canadian Wheat

Heavy Shipments Have Been Going Forward To United Kingdom

Canada continues to find a large market for wheat in the United Kingdom, according to the monthly review of the wheat situation by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. During the seven months from August to February, the United Kingdom imported 112,000,000 bushels of wheat. Of this amount Canada supplied about 18,000,000 bushels or 16 per cent.

These figures indicate that during the present crop year British mills have been using an exceptionally high percentage of Canadian wheat.

Minister Endorses Fuzzles

The figure puzzle is a blessing, believes Rev. A. Lloyd Smith, D.D., of Dominion-Douglas United Church, Montreal, because it is helping to keep families together following a time when the home was merely an empty building beside the garage. It is also another factor in promoting the simpler life, the minister told the American Women's Club here.

Should Be Fully Rippe

Bananas, just like any fruit, if eaten raw should be fully ripe. All suggestion of green at the tips should have disappeared and the skin be a deep yellow, slightly speckled, with brown. In this condition the fruit is delicately mellow and the flavor easily digestible. For cooking purposes, the slightly green fruit may be used with safety.

CHAPTER VIII. A Deadly Trap

"Slob-ice" Jensen was glaring around him at the other five faces in the tent.

"Some of you lubbers," he growled, "ain't got the sense you were borned with. You gimme a pain with your whining and growling and always wanting to argue about what I tell you. Now I'm gonna explain just what's ahead of us and what we gotta do."

The six men were as motley a crew as ever the warring fleets of Bering sea and the Western Arctic could muster up. With one exception the six of them were deck hands—wharf wolvers of gutter speech and alley voices; strange men to be camped in the heart of a wilderness that even the Indians seldom penetrated.

There was John Siebelski, a square-faced squat Alaskan, a descendant of the Cossack Promyshlenniki (fur-hunters) who for generations, when Russia ruled the northwestern shores of America, had held brutal sway over the Aleuts and Kachin in their lust for peltry.

There was Pete Gonzales, a Sandwich Islander, brown-skinned, his white teeth flashing, his dress gaudy and picturesque.

There was "Lunnon Dick," a wiry stunted lunny, with Battersea accent and quick jerky ways.

There was "Chink" Woolley, a quarter-Chinese, an olive-faced, silent nondescript, with his right arm in sling from Bill Hardscock's bullet.

The fifth was a Dogrib mite named Andre, a thin small weasel-like man of fifty. He had just returned from a scouting trip down the Big Alouka.

The six of them were talking, or listening rather to Jensen talk, of final plans to escape. Echoing the identical line of reasoning which Alaker Baker had sketched in Haskell's cabin, Jensen went on: "Some of you want to go back to the River and get outside thataway. H—l's fire—you'd mebbe get ten miles after the Yeller-strips 'ud grab you off. Some of you want to go north to the Arctic coast. Whatfor? No ships to get away on, and the Yeller-strips've got patrols there to boot. You say, 'Head south.' Yeah—and run into the nest of 'plice posts down there around Athabassy. We can't go south nor west nor north, but we kin go east—"

Lunnon Dick spoke up: "Clear hover 't' 'Upson Bay er Manitoba? Two thousand miles away? That's a bloody long 'ard trot. Slob-Hice."

Jensen turned on him with a fierce anger and withering sarcasm that silenced Lunnon for an hour.

HAMILTON, ONTARIO

"Sure it's a h—l—sh long hard trot, you rusty biggie rat! Don't I know it? But I'd rather tramp ten thousand miles than do them twenty slow short stiles from a hogsgow to a scaffold!"

The others all nodded emphatically, fearful of Jensen's scorching anger. They were sitting there on a hundred and fifty thousand dollars which he had got for them. They owed their very lives to his quick thinking aboard the steamer, when he had pulled their trick out of the fire. And they were leaning on him now to save them from the mounted and get them out to the oblivion of a big city.

He went on explaining the escape. "Now, here, all of you—look! here." He smoothed a place on the mud floor; and as the others leaned forward to watch, he drew a rude map with his long thumb nail. "We'll follow the Inconnu east a ways and then head south for Manitoby. We'll spend the rest of this summer and fall working down into timber country. Then we'll find some good hiding place and build a couple of shacks and lay in meat, and we'll wait there till the break-up. Next spring we'll east on down and out to Winnipeg, and there we'll be with better'n a hundred and fifty thousand in hides and dust!"

His own personal and private plans after they did get out to Winnipeg, Jensen did not see fit to disclose. He knew a party there in the Queen City of the Wheat Plains who not only knew the furs at two-thirds of their auction value and say "mudding." The dust, being unstamped, could be sold anywhere. He himself, both business manager and leader of this cruise, would naturally attend to those business matters. Out with the money in his pocket, would be split six ways with these lubbers? Or would he take a train and fade out of their lives and have that hundred and fifty thousand for his own sweet own? You bet your life he would!

The Others All Nodded Emphatically

With his plans clear and the men completely under his sway, Jensen leaned back against a peguon of furs and sat, smoking, thinking.

He guessed that for once the police were altogether baffled. They must be pounding their heads to explain who he and his men were, where they had come from, how they had got into this country, unknown, unseen, and now they complete strangers, knew the inn and outs of this northern wilderness as well as the police themselves. He thought of them as a pack of hounds circling frantically to pick up a scent. It was pleasing to know he had out-manoeuvred them from start to finish. A man who could beat the Yeller-strips would have no trouble at all dodging the provincial police and town cops.

But this reflection was only on the surface of his thoughts. He was thinking of the MacMillan trading post, "Breed Andre had said that Dave MacMillan guessed where the trader was. From the MacMillan girl being alone at the post, except for that white-whiskered old coot, Jensen guessed Dave MacMillan had got into trouble over that pack of other furs in the storage shed.

Through the tobacco haze Jensen looked back across six years and saw again all the details of a certain incident between himself and Joyce MacMillan. He had relived that incident a thousand times since it happened. The memory of it, the memory of that laughing-eyed girl, had come down across the years like the scent of fresh violets. Two weeks ago when his party passed the MacMillan trading post, the place had seemed deserted, and drawn by some overpowering impulse to see her, to be near her again, he had flung caution and hot haste to the winds, and stopped, and gone ashore. The picture of that MacMillan girl asleep, an arm under her head, a great-spurred violet in her hair—that flesh-and-blood reincarnation of her former memory had been a madness in his blood ever since. It had overshadowed his waking thoughts, had fitted across his dreams, had been present with him even during the hot battle with the three Mounties at the edge of Many Waters.

The news which "Breed Andre" had brought back—that Joyce was practically alone at the trading post, scarcely two days travel away, that the trading dwindled and few Indians or metis came now, that the officer commanding at Fort Endurance was giving her no protection whatsoever—this news to Jensen was like a match to a barrel of powder.

His deliberate brain saw danger in his scheme; but he had risked death for the furs and gold, and that hundred and fifty thousand was far less vivid, less tangible, less impassioned to him than the memory of that moment when he stood looking through Joyce's window. He had spent a year on a whaler without getting back to port; a year of exile in Alaskan mountains, among prospectors. . . . There are hungers more powerful than the hunger of food or gold. . . .

It would be ridiculously easy, he imagined to knock the old coot on the head and take the defenses off. They would land above the station and creep into it through the bush. Two of his men would go in peacefully, as though to trade, and watch their chance to seize her. His party could swoop, strike, and have the whole thing over in ten minutes.

Knocking the ashes from his pipe, he leaned forward. "Men, I got an idea. I just showed you lubbers our one chance to 'scape. Now I'm gonna show you how we can make our getaway dead sure and certain. How we can take them Yeller-strips up in a sack and throw away the key. Anybody objecting? Anybody wanting to kick over the traces."

Glaring around him, he saw emphatic denials. The men were hanging upon his words; he knew they would obey him without a whimper of protest.

He went on, "We're going to make a little satchel down the Alouka to MacMillan's trading post. We're going to it tomorrow. We'll rap that old duffer on the head and take the girl. We'll throw them Yeller-strips clear off the scent. While they're hunting for her, we'll be making tracks southeast to Manitoby. 'Yimind how we saved our skins on the steamer by taking that other skirt? We'll do it again; but we'll carry this one along with us. No one'll ever know what happened to her."

For a few days after Alaker Baker bought out of the service and left Fort Endurance, Inspector Haskell enjoyed more peace and security than he had felt in many months. But after the first satisfaction wore away, it gradually occurred to Haskell that maybe he ought to make some move to capture those six bandits. To let them escape without raising a hand against them would look bad, very bad, to Superintendent Williamson on his coming visit to the post.

Thinking over his situation, he remembered how Baker had demanded to lead a patrol to the Inconnu River and lie in wait there. Baker had said they would try to escape by that route. He knew what he was talking about, Haskell realized he knew.

Should he send a detail to the Inconnu?

The more Haskell pondered the idea, the more it appealed to him. It was reasonably sure to succeed. It would be the positive action he needed. On his wall map he hunted for the Inconnu. He found a small channel of the Mackenzie by that name, but Baker's Inconnu was some large river. Perhaps the chart listed it as "The Unknown," the English translation of the name. He searched for an Inconnu and an Unknown, but found neither. Such a stream simply was not shown on his map.

When Little Oiler came in to the post for a supply of chewing tobacco, Haskell pumped him. The sub-chief had only the haziest idea where the Inconnu was, but Indian-like he would not admit his ignorance. He started talking, gesticulating—till Haskell caught him in a flat self-contradiction and kicked him out of the cabin in angry disgust.

Prince Has Useful Hobby

Taught By Queen Mary He Knits

Unusually Well
Before long somebody may be going about wearing proudly a woollen scarf that was knitted by the Prince of Wales. For the heir to the British throne knits and crochets, too, enjoys doing both and does both un- usually well.

Attention was drawn to these little-known diversions by a recent episode. In a box of clothing sent from St. James's Palace to the Lambeth depot of the Personal Service League was a hand-knitted scarf. But for a close visit by the Prince to this depot, which is on his estate, the scarf in question probably would have remained undistinguished from the rest of the garments.

Seeing the scarf on the pile, however, the Prince started his companions by casually remarking: "That is one I knitted." At the time the scarf was separated from the pile. The news spread quickly and high offers were made for it.

This is not the first knitted by the Prince. When a needlework guild in which Queen Mary takes a personal interest held its annual exhibition some time ago, three scarves made by the Prince and three made by his younger brother, Prince George, two of each knitted and the other one crocheted were among the articles displayed.

The Prince of Wales, having some red wool left over, scored over his brother by adding a pair of mittens to the exhibition.

The Prince, one hears at York House, finds that an occasional half hour devoted to knitting or crocheting supplies much-needed mental relaxation. By the occupation of his hands in adding he can take his mind off State business for a little while. But usually every minute of his twenty-four-hour day is mapped out to the second. The Prince was taught to knit by the Queen—whose favorite relaxation is needlework of all kinds—when he was a boy.

RESOLUTIONS

In spite of all the hosts of wrong that, threatening, pursue,
I will be brave, I will be strong,
I will be firm and true!
Unheeding staunch swords red with rust.

That others have let fall,
I will be faithful to my trust,
Nor any vow recall,
I will be wise; I will not grope
Down dark and devious ways,
I will cling close to the bright hope
Through ever-changing days.

Ah, who am I to launch these boasts
Like ships forlorned to break
Upon the far years' unknown coasts?
What pledges dare I make?
Not of myself can I resolve
That I will do or be;
But only as God helps me solve
Each moment's mystery.

A Vanished Race

No Living Eskimos In Northeast Greenland Since 1823

A vanished race has left traces of an active life on the shores of Northeast Greenland. No trace of living Eskimos in that district has been known since 1823. It is thought that some sudden tragedy must have overcome the Eskimos, because in several huts were found a number of skeletons. In one place, explorers of the Royal Geographical Society found a number of implements among the ruins, many of which were well preserved and of archaeological value. To judge from the implements, the coast seems to have been inhabited about 1400-1500.

One machine has been invented that can turn out 34 miles of wallpaper daily. Sheets of plain paper daily. To judge from the implements, the coast seems to have been inhabited about 1400-1500.

Produced Queer Fruit

Half Lemon Half Orange Evidently Evolved From Grafting

A very unusual freak, half lemon and half orange, was received in a shipment of California fruit opened at the Garton Holmes store, in Simcoe, Ontario. The "lemon-orange" has the appearance of having been grafted by some experimenting joker after the fruit had commenced to form. Divided longitudinally into two hemispheres, the orange half is 100 per cent. orange with a bright orange-colored skin, while the lemon half is just as much of a lemon with typical light yellow skin. There are the usual differences in the textures of the two, but the two halves are solidly grown together, a narrow ridge running around the fruit where the two halves are joined. The fruit grew on one stem.

The toast, "Long live our teacher," had just been drunk. A new teacher was called on to make the response. Blushingly he got to his feet and said, "What on?"

Little Helps For This Week

"Forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark."—Philippians 3:13, 14.

Yet I argue not. Against Heaven's hand or will, nor bate a jot Of heart or hope; but still bear up and steer Right onward.

—John Milton.

It is not by regretting what is irreparable that true work is to be done, but by making the best of what we have. It is not by complaining that we have not the right tools, but by using well the tools we have. What we are and where we are is God's providential arrangement—God's doing though it may be man's misdoing; and the manly and wise way is to look your disadvantages in the face and see what can be made out of them. He is the best general who wins the most splendid victories by the retrieval of mistakes.—F. W. Robertson.

FOR ANY PAIN

Have you ever found any quicker relief than this?

Anyone can take Aspirin, for doctors have declared these tablets perfectly safe. And there is no quicker form of relief for any pain. It is well to remember these things when anyone tries to persuade you to try anything in place of these tablets.

Aspirin may be taken as often as there is any need of its comfort; to stop a headache, throw off a cold, drive away the pains from neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, lumbago, etc. Whenever you take Aspirin you know you are going to get immediate results—and you know there will be no ill effects. You know what you are taking. Why take chances on some form of relief which may not be as swift—may not be as safe? The new reduced price on bottles of 100 tablets has removed the last reason for ever experimenting with any substitute for Aspirin.

Aspirin is a trade-mark registered in Canada.

Several volunteers did good work in thoroughly spring cleaning the United Church last week in preparation for the anniversary services. The ceiling and walls were washed, woodwork polished, lamp globes and shades cleaned; in fact an all-round mighty good job was done for which credit is due to those who spent most of the week on the work.

Some people display a lamentable lack of ethics. A newspaper was received in a typewritten wrapper, and a column referring to a certain event to take place was marked "Please Copy." Beatty of the C.P.R. As Montreals Know Him

Reprinted from Montreal Daily Herald

Ed. Beatty is a quarter-back who studied law, but by a twist of fate, became a railway professional.

Though he couldn't make the first string on theVarsity gridiron squad he had no difficulty with the C.P.R. and has played regularly ever since. They say it was Shaughnessy coaching that turned the trick (Lord S. not Shag).

He is probably the shyest man in Canada.

The ladies admire him because he wears his hat over one eye and walks with a quarter-back swagger. The fact that he is a bachelor and apparently intends to remain one provides a second element of "he ne sais quoi" to keep feminine hearts in a state of flutter.

Business men like him because he talks straight from the shoulder and has an uncanny talent for getting at the core of the most intricate problem.

The man in the street respects him because he is the boss of the C.P.R. The Prince of Wales is another citizen who thinks Beatty is "all right," and His Royal Highness is always ready to prove it by officiating at the launching of a new C.P.R. ship.

Ordinary people respect him highly, and are sorry his railway is having a hard time.

As a youth he wanted to be a judge, but fate intervened and sent him a job in the C.P.R.'s legal department.

Young Beatty refused to regard this as his life-work, but ultimately had to decide in a hurry when the late Lord Shaughnessy sent for him and asked him to be a Vice-regent.

Here is one version of what took place: Beatty said "No!" "Tom" Shaughnessy fixed the young attorney with a stern eye and exclaimed, "My God, Beatty! you want to be a mere lawyer all your life?" Young Beatty smiled and took the job.

Some people think Mr. Beatty is hard to reach and tales are told of citizens who wait for weeks for the call to conference. Nevertheless he is the easiest man in the country to talk to, provided you can crash the outer office.

He is one of the few leading citizens who go in for Good Works in a Big Way without thought of publicity or praise. Not long ago the mother of an ex-Boy's Home youth who had lost his job in the States, was destitute and needed trainfare home in despair telephoned to E. W. The Chairman and President of the C.P.R. came to the phone in person, discussed the case with the harassed mother, told her not to worry and instructed the C.P.R. official nearest to the boy to ship him back to his home, paying the fare out of his own pocket. These are the things which have won him a reputation for kindness and humanity.

He was born at Thorold, which Ontario people will tell you is situated in the Garden of Canada. He attended several schools in Toronto, and ultimately scratched his way into, through and out of Toronto University and was called to the Ontario Bar. That was in 1901 and almost at once he went into the C.P.R.'s law department. He stayed there for thirteen years before becoming the company's General Counsel. In 1916 he was elected to the Board. In 1918 he made him President, when Lord Shaughnessy dropped one of his two portfolios. Six years later he added the title Chairman to his letterhead. Since then he has held both jobs and has had plenty of worries on his hands.

He thinks co-operative management will solve the railway problem. He does more travelling than many salesmen. To-day you will see him in Calgary. Next Tuesday he will be in Montreal.

On Wednesday he will appear before the Railway Commission in the Capital. On Thursday you can talk with him by long distance to the Empress of Britain, outward bound. Wherever he goes he carries his work under his hat. When times were good it used to be written that he had the Biggest Industrial Job in The World. The job to-day is probably just as big but infinitely more arduous.

His continued good repute is largely due to the idea that he got about that he is honest, honorable and, taking him by and large, as representative a citizen of Canada as can be found between the two oceans.

And there is plenty of evidence to support the charge.
